HEADS GROWING U. S. SUBMARINE SERVICE
Rear Admiral A. W. Grant, head of Uncle Sam's submarine service, is the first officer of high rank ever to be put in charge of the submarine flotilla. He has been on the job a year, and at the end of two more years will see the completion of a 3-year building program which will produce 12 fleet submarines and 130 coast submarines. Admiral Grant is an advocate of the 800-ton type of submarine rather than a larger one of 1,200 or 1,500 tons favored by many officers for extensive cruising. He believes strongly also in coast defense types.

WOODMEN LODGE HAS ANNUAL ROLL CALL
Members of Florence Camp Enjoy Musical Program and Dancing at Annual Function.
A very pleasant social occasion featured the annual roll call given by Florence Camp, No. 1, at the Woodmen lodge last evening. The meeting was called to order with Vice Counsel A. M. Church presiding. The roll call of the four hundred members was read, those present responding to their names as read. Regrets from many absent members were also given. A short musical program was rendered. A vocal quartet, consisting of "The Sunshine of Her Smile," and "Mother," and Walter Helms played "Pleasant Dreams" and the "Miserere" from Trovatore. The saxophone solos, afterward the floor was cleared for dancing, for which the Bower City Orchestra rendered very acceptable music. This latter is a new organization, picked from the membership of the Bower City Band and has Floyd Yeomans as leader.
The Florence Camp is a very flourishing organization, having had many new members added to their ranks during last year and others expect to join soon. A pleasant incident of their last business meeting was when three brothers were admitted to membership at one time, the father having been a member for some years.

The TRUTH

Coffee does disagree with many. And in these days of accurate scientific knowledge there's no virtue in appearing astonished when this truth is faced.
Caffein (the drug in coffee, and in tea also) leaves the system in an overworked and debilitated state, and is responsible for various serious ills and discomforts.
Thousands who desire an appetizing hot table beverage with none of coffee's drawbacks, find a most delightful cup—one containing no deleterious substance whatever—in

BAD AUTO WRECK ON SOUTH MAIN STREET
Machines Sideswiped Into a Tree and Is Smashed by the Contact.—No One Injured.
Sometime about midnight a five passenger touring car with a Wisconsin license No. 14,239 crashed into a tree and was wrecked near the corner of St. Lawrence avenue and South Main street. As far as is known no one was injured, although it is believed the car was traveling at a good rate of speed going north and either skidded or was turned up over a ten inch curb, crashing into a tree. The impact swung the car around in a wide arc. The running board was jammed back beyond repair and the left door was torn off and was otherwise damaged. At the police station the number on the machine is credited as being in the possession of Evansville. Who was driving the car has not been learned.

INTERURBAN CO. MAY TIE UP STREET WORK

Inability to Secure Steel Rails Advanced as Reason For Delay Sought For Two Streets.
Members of the city commission were in conference yesterday afternoon with William Sparks, general manager of the Rockford interurban company, relative to the present decision to replace those in at present and which are light and pretty well worn out.
Mr. Sparks said that the interurban company would be unable to secure its rails before Sept. 1. This would seriously disrupt the paving schedule as planned by the commission.
No definite arrangement was reached as to the delay as the interurban official requested time for the attempt to arrange matters whereby the street improvements could be pushed without postponement.
According to Mr. Sparks the mills are not taking orders for steel rails as more profit is obtainable from sheet rolled products.

Wednesday's Markets.
Chicago, Feb. 1.—In memory of present day traders made its appearance on the Chicago market yesterday—a load of fancy 230 lb. butcher hogs, including a dozen Canadian "singles" making the price. The trade was animated at a general 10¢ advance. Big packers were free buyers early and late, contributing to the activity and closing the needs of the big houses.
Cattle trade was slow at steady to 10¢ lower prices. Declines were noted in the middle and lower sections of the market. Best steers sold at $11.95. There was a profusion of warm up and short fat steers sold at $10.75 and $10.75. Slow rate deliveries hampered the trade.
Sheep and lambs sold steady to strong, with 10c higher spots. Receipts were light everywhere and Missouri river markets were relatively higher than Chicago. Best lambs sold at $14.40. Feeder buyers were active in the competition, paying up to $14.15 for 53-lb. feeding lambs, a new record price.
The average price of hogs at Chicago yesterday was $11.77, a new record, against $11.60 Tuesday, $11.28 a week ago, $7.75 a year ago and $7.14 two years ago.

Cattle Trade Sluggish.
Cattle supply was sufficiently heavy to give the buying side the edge and the trade was relatively steady to 10¢ lower. Most of the beef steers sold at $9.50 to $10.90, but an $11.95 top was made. MAY SEND YOUTH TO THE MENDOTA "CURE"
State Aylwin Figured Better Place for Youth Than Sentence to Wau-pun for Heroin Theft.
The "cure" as administered to drug addicts by state physicians at Mendota has been suggested as probably the best solution of the case of James McGolick, the twenty-one year old youth taken by the police as a "sleigh rider" and whom they allege was the thief who stole the contents of a bottle of heroin and a key from the office of W. A. Munn.
Physicians examined the youth at the county jail last night, where he is held in default of $500 bail demanded pending his trial for the theft of the bottle of tablets. McGolick was starved for drugs by the police and at the jail late yesterday afternoon he was a nervous and physical wreck. He relieves his suffering by injection of drug was given him last night.
Mrs. Munn and Fred Sutherland made the examination. Their disposition will determine whether or not McGolick will be taken to the state institution by a representative of Sheriff Robert G. Whipple's office. Indications today were that the charge of larceny would be dismissed pending the "cure."
VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.
Feb. 1, 1917.
Editor Gazette:
I know of no action against St. Mary's church until I read your report on court actions, which misleads as reflecting on me. The trustees have illegally withheld my salary for nearly a year, and being delinquent in an obligation at the bank, I gave them two orders on John Campion, treasurer, to be charged to my salary account. The treasurer still refusing to pay, the bank brought action against me with the result of judgment against the church. Your headline, "Sues Congregation for Pastor's Debt," I consider a falsehood. John Campion may think the church is not liable for the pastor's debt, but it is liable for salary which he should secure to pay a debt.

Heart and Home Problems

By Mrs. Elizabeth Thompson
Letters may be addressed to Mrs. Thompson, in care of The Gazette.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a young man nineteen years old and have with a girl of twenty-two. At first we were very much in love and she was very kind to me and let me come to see her as often as I wanted to, and then she met another man and she lost her enthusiasm for me. She still tells me come, but I know she likes the other man better and it is torture to me. He has money and I have not. He takes her candy every time he goes to see her. I would like to, too, but I am not able to. I am still in school and I have to get money from my father. He can't afford to be buying candy for my girl. I realize that I am foolish to care for the girl when she is so much older than I am, but I can't help it. She is so sympathetic and she understands everything. She knows I haven't money and she tries to help me. I know because when I suggest going places she sometimes goes, but more often she thinks it would be better to stay home and do something like that. She never told me that the other man gave her candy, but she does, because I have been with him. He has bought it for her. I introduced him to her. We live on the same street and see a great deal of each other. When he wanted to go to see her he told me first and said I wouldn't do it if I would care. I didn't expect to.

I can't seem to think of anything but that girl. It is an effort to keep my mind on my school work, and instead of being ambitious I feel hopeless and listless. Can you tell me what to do? I want to brace up, but I don't seem to be able to.

THANK YOU.
You are giving up to your feelings too much and do not give your mind enough exercise. You can work at your school, work if you only think you can. Get your lessons religiously and don't slight anything. At first it will probably be hard to find interest in your studies, but before long you will get great pleasure out of them. Do with another girl, too. The girl that you mention is too much older than you are for you to consider seriously, and besides, you are too young to permit yourself to be in love. You can forget yourself and the girl in work. Get busy if you want to be happy.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Until four months ago I lived in another town. During Christmas vacation a girl from my home town came to see me and while she was here a boy friend of hers and a friend of his came to see us. The boys both seemed to have a good time. A few nights later, after she had gone home, my friend (that is, the boy friend of the girl who was here) asked me what I was going to do that evening. I happened to be going to a club meeting to neglected to invite him to come. At the time that he had phoned for the date, I learned from my girl friend that he was hurt and that I didn't want to see him. I liked him so much that I would like to straighten matters. What shall I do?

In two weeks another girl from my home town is coming to visit me. Would it be all right to ask the two boys to come over while she is here. I could either do that or have the one boy out some evening to play cards when my sister has company. Which do you think would be better?

RUTH.
Have the boy out soon to play cards when my sister has company. Would it be all right to ask the two boys to come when your girl friend is here.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: My gentleman friend seems to think a lot of me, but still he pays attention to another girl. I think a great deal of him, but I broke a date with me in order to be with the other girl. Shall I give him another trial?

WORRIED.
You are probably too nice to him. Keep him guessing for a change. Let him come over once in a while, but not often. Go with other men, too and don't mention your rival.

LOST STORIES.

Two more lost stories have been found and sent to the losers, the one about the making of the American flag, and the little poem about Teddy Bear.

And still the lost stories come in. Quite some time ago I wrote one better friend of I read in one of your articles a few lines from a poem which ran as follows:—
"I was as a passing glance,
Then out of my life forever"

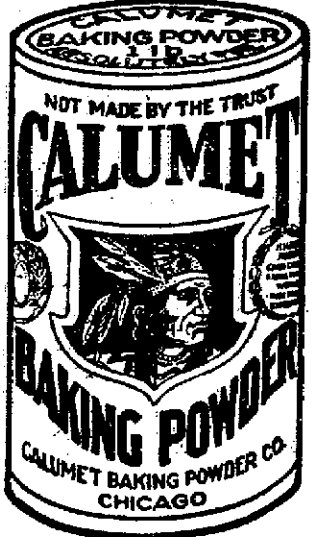

"Could you, or perhaps some of your readers, tell me from what poem that was taken and by whom written?"
I don't seem to recall the poem. Perhaps some reader friend has a better memory.
She read in a Church Paper.
"Where is it possible" writes another, "for you to find the title of a book for me, or rather a story? This story was in a Church of England

Church paper, and one of the girl's names was either Monica or Mona. Some of the story, as I can remember it, is as follows. This Mona, or Monica's father was a Protestant and her mother a Roman Catholic. The Catholic father died and before going to be requested that his daughter should be sent to his sister-in-law in England. Possibly this might in some way help to find the story. An answer will greatly oblige.

A Lost Poem.
"Can you or any of your readers," inquires another letter friend, "inform me as to who wrote the following lines and in what poem it is featured?"

The world is bright while ye remain,
And dull and dark when ye are lost (or departed)."

If I remember correctly the late Elbert Hubbard once wrote that a noted race horse had a goat put in his stall, and when he was in the stall, the goat would be in the stall, and when he was out of the stall, the goat would be out of the stall. But as I've heard the expression used the story is not applicable. This explanation is interesting. We'd be happy to hear others.

Household Hints

TWO SPECIAL RECIPES.
Peas and Macaroni—Boil macaroni and when tender, strain, add one can of peas and cream together, as for the potatoes. The combination will be found quite unusual and delicious.
A New Dessert—Bake one cottage pudding, the recipe for which can be found in any cook book. When cool, cut in two like a layer cake. Spread the lower layer with apple sauce and place the other layer on top; spread with apple sauce and then with about one-half inch of whipped cream. Cut in squares and serve. It is lovely for afternoon parties and very inexpensive.

SIMPLE SILVER POLISH.
A simple but effective silver polish may be made as follows: Four ounces of oil of sassafras, five cents worth of glass, mix the glass with the oil until it becomes a thick liquid. Rub smoothly over the silver and let stand for about five minutes. Then shine with cambric or soft cloth.

EFFECTIVE CEMENT.
A cement that is almost indestructible and is very effective for filling cracks in sinks, bathtubs and floors, is made by mixing plaster of paris with white lead paint. Work well into the crack and smooth carefully until even with the other surface. This cement should be left to dry first before water is allowed to touch it.

A ROLLING PIN PROTECTOR.
Protect your rolling pin and board from dust when not in use by covers of heavy duck. For the rolling pin make a tube open at the top by a drawing, leaving only space for the handle to slip through. Hang it by the cord or small hook in the end of the board, or the board make an envelope, open at the lower end, with two small slits in the upper end to correspond with two screw eyes, which should be placed in the end of the board to hang on hooks.

DEVICE FOR CLOSETS.
People living in small apartments will find this device for increasing closet capacity useful. Fasten one end of a heavy wire picture-wire works well to the first hook, thread the other end through the spring of a patent clothespin and wind the wire about the second hook and so on around the closet until there is a clothespin between each pair of hooks. These are excellent for holding skirts or waists and can be removed with ease.

THE TABLE.
Pop Overs—One cup flour, one egg, one cup milk, one-half teaspoon salt. Beat egg and add to milk, stirring liquid into flour and salt. Beat vigorously until very light. Bake in very hot well greased gem pans in a hot oven about 25 minutes.

Gingerbread—One-half cup sugar, one tablespoon butter and lard, one egg, one-half cup sour milk, one even teaspoon soda, one-half cup molasses, one cup cinnamon, one teaspoon grated nutmeg. Beat the butter and sugar to a cream, add the eggs, then the milk with soda dissolved in it, add molasses last with spices and flour. Bake in a square tin about 20 minutes.

Egg Sauce—One tablespoon butter, one tablespoon flour, one cup milk, one-half teaspoon salt, dash of pepper, two hard boiled eggs. Melt butter and add the flour, stirring until smooth; then add the milk, stirring constantly until it boils. Add seasoning, then the two eggs, which are finely chopped, and the yolks pressed through a sieve, and the sauce is ready.

French Salad Dressing—Two tablespoons vinegar, six tablespoons olive oil, one teaspoon salt, one-half teaspoon paprika. Put the salt and paprika in a bowl, add a little oil and beat well, then gradually add the remainder of the oil, stirring constantly. Last of all stir in the vinegar, drop by drop.

Pineapple Delight—One-fourth pound marshmallows cut in quarters, cover with pineapple juice, let stand two hours. Beat the juice not absorbed by marshmallows. Add to marshmallows one-half cup chopped pineapple, one-half cup whipped cream, a few walnut meats; beaten with whipped cream and marshmallows. This rich milk can be used in place of whipped cream, but of course, would not be so good. This is a most delicious dessert.

THE ALTERNATIVE.
She—How much do you make out of all your poetry, John?
He—Well, I only made $200 last year, but I don't think they are other things in life besides money!
She—Yes, John. Yes, there's the workhouse.

Wherever vegetables are baked all the food value is preserved.

The Highflyers

In Which is Recorded a Crisis in the Life of Clyde Jaynes.

"What was that?"
"It sounded like a revolver shot," Tom dashed for the door and ran down the walk, followed by Marjory. "Can you see anything?" she called. She stood just beyond the patch of light thrown by the open door. Tom had disappeared in the murk of the black night. A light seemed at length to come from the girl, she saw Tom come running toward her. "Call up Dr. Ellison, quick," he shouted as soon as he was within ear shot. "What's happened?" she asked, rooted to the spot. "Young Jaynes has been shot," he panted, running to her side. "Why, he's left here," he exclaimed, too astonished to move. Tom ran to her, and she could hear him talking over the phone as she went into the house. "Come at once, hurry! Young Jaynes is shot. This is Gerald talking. He is right in front of our house. He is still alive, but is unconscious." Tom hung up the receiver. Breathed Marjory, shaking her head to foot. "Are you sure it is young Jaynes?" "It is so dark I do not see how you can tell who it is."

"I struck a match when I stumbled over something on the walk," Scott. "I thought he was dead at first. He slipped my hand inside his coat. He was breathing, but it is very serious. I am afraid. While he was tumbling, the words out of his mouth he struggled into his overcoat. 'I'll go out and stay with him till the doctor comes,' he continued. 'How foolish I had a lantern. It should be moonlight but for this fog, so they have hurried out of the door. Marjory, unable to stay in the house, put a showl over her head and stepped out on the porch. She soon heard hurried feet along the sidewalk. The doctor lived less than two blocks away. She had snapped on the porch light when she stepped out. Soon the two men came into the circle of light carrying the wounded man between them.

"They are bringing him here," gasped Marjory, turning to enter the house. She hastily cleared the doorway and ran into the bedroom for a pillow. She was standing by the open door when they entered.

"Put him right down here," Dr. Ellison moved toward the doorway. He drew off his coat and knelt by the unconscious man. Marjory clung to the door and watched the proceedings in suspense.

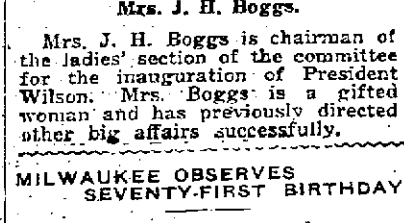

"May I have a basin of warm water please," Mrs. Gerard. The calm voice of Dr. Ellison quieted the doctor and she proved a very able assistant as the doctor smilingly told her when he had finished the examination. "The wound is very serious. Just how serious I cannot tell tonight, but he ought not to be moved. Could you have him here, by all means," interrupted Marjory. "I will put the spare room in readiness at once." She hurried away.

"Did you see any signs of the assassin?" asked the doctor when the two were alone. "No, but he may have been within three feet of me all the time. It was so dark I could not have seen him if he had been near enough to touch me. He certainly chose a good night for this kind of work," replied Tom. "He must have known his whereabouts and have laid in wait for him, otherwise he never could have seen him."

"True enough. He was evidently near enough to touch him and that is why the aim was so deadly." "The room is ready," said Marjory, coming toward them.

A slight groan escaped from the wounded man as they lifted him to carry him to his room. "I'll go and tell the father, and come back with him probably," said Dr. Ellison as he took his leave. (To be continued.)

VERDUN CHURCH RELICS RENOVATED IN FRANCE.

Paris, Feb. 1.—Among the war relics at the Petit Palais remains of the choir of the cathedral of Verdun which the Sub-prefect Grillon of Verdun is endeavoring to reconstruct. Some of the panels have been split, others saved in by explosions and shell fragments, and pieces of projectiles are seen imbedded in the canopies. The high Louis XV. chairs, saved by Gillion during the bombardments are nearly all in the state of the Virgin that was found undamaged among the ruins of the Chapel of Sainte-Fine.

HEALTH TALKS By WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

RECU-- "WINTER COUGH."

As pointed out the other day, the winter cough of elderly individuals is usually a chronic bronchitis. But most coughs are not bronchitis. In children, the commonest cause of cough, especially after retching at night, is nasal secretion trickling down the throat. In young adults it is usually a serious illness which puts the victim in bed. Soreness felt in a certain part of the chest is no sign of inflammation there; one with a simple pharyngitis or irritated throat may feel sore deep in the chest.

In the elderly victim of recurring winter cough the bronchial tubes are dilated. There is not only a "catharsis" of these tubes, but also in many cases dilatation of some of the tubes (called bronchiectasis), which explains the very large quantities of fetid matter expectorated at intervals by the sufferer. In cases in which there is more or less constant asthmatic or wheezy state, the cells of the lung are found permanently dilated, overdistended, and this causes the constant shortness of breath.

Posture is often an important part of the treatment of chronic bronchitis. If the foot of the bed is raised a little each day, only two inches at first, but ultimately about six inches, the patient will find it an aid in expectoration.

It is a serious and vicious thing to coddle a chest just because you believe there is something wrong. Inadequate ventilation of the respiratory troubles like coddling—that is, wearing excessive clothing upon some part you imagine needs "protection." Protection against what? If you fancy the cold penetrates the surface to reach the sore place, you may as well give up and die, for there is no helping you. Instead of coddling a region you think is weak, strengthen it by letting the air get to it. Bathe it with cold water, the whole body with cold water for the same reason. Always follow up the warm bath with a cold sponge or dash, momentary as you please, but cool. Not to "close the pores"—for it really does nothing of the kind—but to wake up the vasomotor nervous system which has been lulled asleep by the warm bath. Bathe the whole body in cold water for the same purpose whenever you can.

Wear all wool knitted underwear, but not heavy weight. Wool or heavy stockings. For the rest of the clothing, wear what you please, but never more than comfort really demands.

Staying in because the weather is a little cold, damp, windy or something is a sure way to nurse and help along a nice little winter cough. Don't get the cough. Take it out and give it an airing, and don't be afraid to venture out in any weather. Count that day lost which cheats you out of your constitutional.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

The Light in the Barber Shop.
Is the violet ray, used by barbers, a cure for baldness? (L. E. J.)
Answer—I think you might call it the light that failed. The ultraviolet ray from a quartz lamp may be effective in baldness, but that is a remedy no barber can manage.

How to Remove Blood Stains.
Can you tell me anything about the removal of blood stains from white silk material? (Mrs. W. E. M.)
Answer—First moisten with vinegar or dilute acetic acid, then soak for two hours in a strong solution of chloral hydrate in water. Or use peroxide, soaking for some hours.

WHY SOCIETY WOMEN WASH THEIR OWN HAIR.

They do, not because it is a fad, but because they wish to obtain the greatest possible hair beauty and be sure they are not using anything harmful. They have found that in washing the hair it is never wise to use a makeshift, but is always advisable to use a preparation made for shampooing only. Many of our friends say they get the best results from a simple home-made cantharox mixture. You can use this at a cost of about three cents a shampoo by getting some cantharox from your druggist, and dissolving a teaspoonful in a cup of hot water. This makes enough shampoo liquid to apply to all the hair instead of just the top of the head, as with most preparations. Cantharox, excess oil and dirt are dissolved and entirely disappear in the rinsing water. Your hair will be so clean that it will look much heavier than it is. Its lustre and softness will also delight you.—Advertisement.

FATHER WAS RIGHT.

Nan of Music Mountain

By FRANK H. SPEARMAN Author of "WHISPERING SMITH"

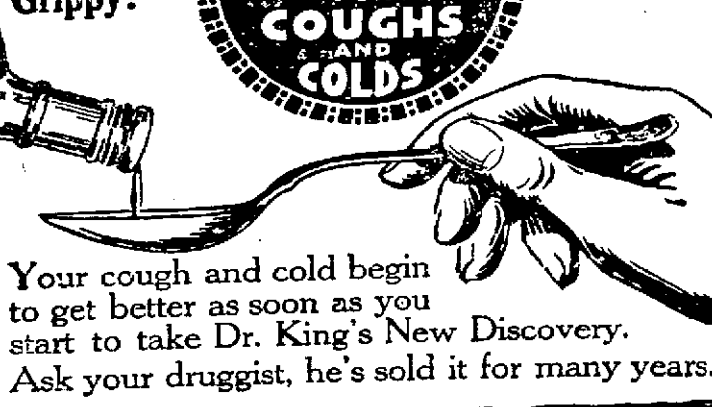

(Copyright by Charles Scribner's Sons)

CHAPTER XVII.

Danger. When she tiptoed into her uncle's room at midnight, Nan's heart beat as the wings of a bird beat from the broken door of a cage into a forbidden sky of happiness. She had left the room a girl; she returned a woman. Sleep she did not expect or even ask for; the night was all too short to think of those unseemly moments that had pledged her to her lover. When the anxieties of her situation overwhelmed her, as they would again and again, she felt herself in the arms of this strange, resolute man whom all her own hatred and whom she knew she already loved beyond all power to put away. In her heart, she had tried this more than once—she knew she could not, would not, ever do it or even try to do it again. She rejoiced in his love. She trusted. When he spoke she believed this man whom no one around her would believe; and she, who never had believed what other men avowed, and who deflected their avowals, believed De Spain, and secretly, guiltily, gloved in every word of his devotion and breathed faint in its every caress. Night could hardly come fast enough after the next long day. A hundred times during that day she reminded herself, while the slow, majestic sun shone shimmering on the hot desert, that she had promised to steal into the grounds the minute darkness fell—he would be waiting. A hundred times in the long afternoon Nan looked into the cloudless western sky and with puny, eager hands would have pushed the lagging orb on its course that she might sooner give herself into the arms where she felt her place so sure, her honor safe, her helplessness so protected, herself so loved. How her cheeks burned after supper when she asked her uncle for leave to post a letter downtown! How breathless with apprehension she halted as De Spain stepped from the shadow of the trees and drew her inopportunistly beneath them for the kiss that had burned on her troubled lips all day! How, girl-like, knowing his caresses were all her own—knowing she could at an instant call forth enough to smother her—she tyrannized his importuning, and like a lovely miser, hoarded her responsiveness under calm eye and laconic whispers until, when she did give back his eagerness, she made his senses reel. How dreamily she listened to every word he let fall in his outpouring of devotion; how gravely she put up her hand to restrain his busy intrusion, and asked if he knew that no man in the world, least of all her fierce and burly cousin, had ever touched her lips until he himself forced a kiss on them the night before. 'And now?' She hid her face against his shoulder. 'Oh, Henry, how I love you! I'm so ashamed I couldn't tell you if it weren't night; I'll never look you in the face again in the daytime.' And when he told her how little he himself had had to do with, and how little he knew about girls, even from boyhood, how she feigned not to believe, and believed him still! They were two children raised in the magic of an hour to the supreme height of life and dizzy together on its summit. 'I don't see how you can care for me, Henry. Oh, I mean it,' she protested, holding her head resolutely up. 'You know who we are, away off there in the mountains. Everyone hates us. I suppose they've plenty of reason to; we hate everybody else. And why shouldn't we? We're at war with everyone. You know, better than I do, what goes on in the gap. I don't want to know; I try not to know; Uncle Duke tries to keep things from me—that day on Music—I couldn't believe you meant it at all. And yet—I'm afraid I liked to try to think you did. When you looked at me I felt as if you could see right through me.' Confidences never came to an end. And diplomacy came into its own almost at once in De Spain's efforts to improve his relations with the implacable Duke. The day came when Nan's uncle could be taken home. De Spain sent to him a soft-spoken emissary, Bob Scott, offering to provide a light stage, with his compliments, for the trip. The intractable mountaineer, with his refusal to accept the olive branch, blew Bob out of the room. Nan was crushed by the result, but De Spain was not to be dismayed. Lefevre came to him the day after Nan had got her uncle home. 'Henry,'

The object is to insure the cultivation in 1917 of all farm land that was non-producing in 1916 or previously by making up in mechanical appliances for the lack of farm hands and farm horses. Half of the sum may be applied to the subsidizing of local agricultural societies for the purchase of electrical or other traction farm implements for the common use of farmers of a commune or arrondissement. ### CHICAGO MYSTIC A. C. READY FOR GAME HERE

Windy City Team Being Primed This Week for Tussle With Cards Saturday Night.

According to reports from Chicago it appears that the Mystic Athletic Club team is not underrating the strength of the Lakota Cardinals, whom they meet here Saturday night. From a letter received today by Manager Caldwell, it is learned that the Mystic team is being given one of the hardest drills this week to fit them for the tussle with the Wisconsin champions.

Thus far this season the Windy City team has been playing consistent ball and have won the greater number of their games. On Feb. 1, A. C. the West Side Browns and the Chicago "Y" five, which recently finished a long tour through the east, have had an edge on them. The defeat Saturday's visitors suffered at the hands of these teams were not by large scores in any case, the games being nip and tuck from whistle to whistle.

Today Manager Caldwell expects to present the same lineup against the Mystics as that which gave the Racine Artillerymen such a bad beating last Saturday. Edger and Mitchell will play guards, Pfeiffer and Knapp the forwards and Bloden will be in center.

The team that disrupts this combination is the Cardinals. After a mediocre start the Cardinals are now strongly organized and are ready to take games with the best teams in the country. The game Saturday night should indicate something of the relative strength of Chicago teams this year. Manager Caldwell is desirous of getting the West Side Browns, Indians, Indians, Ohio, Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota.

I. A. C. Basket Turnout. Information from this morning announced the dates of February 19-21 as those decided upon by the Chicago Athletic Club of the central division basketball championship. The teams of unlimited weight, but all members of which must be enrolled in the I. A. C. are invited. The central district is composed of the states of Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Ohio, Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota.

CLION TAKES THE FIVE MILE EVENT

World's Champion Wins Feature Event of Three Days' Racing—Time Was 15:35.

Taking the lead in the six-year-old colts, Clion gradually drew out a lead in the grand five mile race last evening at the Auditorium which won him the race by a margin of four yards. The race was a long grind, which proved the superiority of Clion and of two others of the champion skaters, Freddie Martin and Jack Woodworth, who finished in the order named for the first four five miles.

There was no hanging back at any time during the race, though a record was not established, is especially fast for a track as small as the local one, and represents the maximum speed that can be attained when the turns are as sharp as here. During the race each of the six skaters led at some time, but the steady drive of the champion, Clion, assured him any position he desired to take. Never faltering, during his turn to a strategy, Clion displayed the skill that has brought to him the championship in practically every event of the skating field.

All of the skaters are on their way to New York to participate in the grand championship events in Madison Square Garden. It is expected that though Clion showed in the order named for the first four five miles, he can develop bursts of speed which on a long, banked turn track will make the world leader hustler.

The greatest of the three whiffs in one inning stunts was undoubtedly Walter Johnson's performance in the first frame of the Cleveland-Washington game on May 18. With men on second and third Walter Perry cut loose and fanned Tris Speaker, Elmer Smith and Arnold Gandil.

While it was raining heavily at the Polo grounds on July 13, Bob Shawkey entered the ranks of the pitchers who retired the side on strikes, the eighth being Bob's, and his prey consisting of Smith, Gandil and Chapman. Each took a swing at every strike.

Two More Veterans Headed For Bushes

The veterans drop of every season and present indications are that two will be missing from the Brooklyn Dodgers' roster next summer.

Both Fred Merkle, first base vet, and George Cutshaw, second sacker, appear to be ready for a trip to the bushes. Charlie Ebbets, Brooklyn owner, hoped for a while to send the Cardinals in to the St. Louis two, among others, for Jack Miller and Frank Snyder, but Miller Huggins didn't seem to take greatly to the deal.

Another major league strikeout feat that never has been duplicated was reeled off by Rube Waddell the day he was pitching his first game in Philadelphia, for Connie Mack July 1, 1902. On that afternoon the legendary George Edward fanned the same three men, Billy Gilbert, Jack Cronin and Harry Howell, in three different innings, the third, sixth and ninth.

The feat of striking out three men in one inning was accomplished twenty-seven times in the American league last season, men who did it more than once being Claude Williams, Cy Young, Walter Johnson, and Walter Johnson. The first named had three such performances to his credit, the others each two.

Coming to Ed Klepper's rescue in the ninth inning on June 12, Stanley Coveleski of the Indians whiffed three Mackmen and saved the day. Willie Mitchell was subpoenaed to keep a three run lead safe for the Cubs in the eighth in Chicago on May 7 and fanned three men the first round he tossed, not getting his strikeout whip into operation, however, until two batters had reached the bases. On August 14 Ray Fisher pitched only one inning—the ninth—against the Mackmen, but he whiffed the side, his victims being Haley, Lewry and Witt.

Denton Young (Cy?) probably performed a feat unequalled by any pitcher on April 5, 1900, pitching for the Cardinals against the Pirates he scattered his nine strikeouts so that one came in every inning.

Prior to that same Morton complained of a lame arm and it was just about a week later in a contest with the Yankees that he had to walk out of the box, not because he was being hit freely, but because he had a kind in his salary wing. When Morton gave up he was pitching to Frank Gilhooley. The game of June 31 was practically the last good ever until two batters had reached the bases. On August 14 Ray Fisher pitched only one inning—the ninth—against the Mackmen, but he whiffed the side, his victims being Haley, Lewry and Witt.

Nobody knows whether or not the married baseball players will strike because nobody as yet has interviewed their wives.

POOR GREENLANDER! Has Lots Of Things To Be Thankful For.

Fred Merkle (above) and George Cutshaw.

The Greenlandic man has a lot to be thankful for. He has no army to support. He has no navy to worry about. There are no policemen in Greenland. He has no taxes to pay. There are no movie shows or theatres.

All doctor bills are paid by the Danish government. "There," added the governor, "you have a condition unique among the peoples of the world. And it must not be forgotten that the standard of civilization among these Arctic Highlanders is being raised slowly by necessity. I am also pleased to report that his numbers are increasing. The present population of 13,900 shows a growth of about 7 1/2 per cent in ten years."

The Danish government, which controls the country, looks after the Eskimos. It has a rigid ban on visitors to the country—nobody is allowed to go to Greenland except by special permission—leaves him to develop on natural evolutionary lines.

RUMANIAN VILLAGE NOW A METROPOLIS

Hermannstadt, Transylvania, Feb. 1.—Tucked away among the foothills of the Transylvanian mountains almost on the border of Rumania, Hermannstadt was hardly ever heard of before the war, but with the continuance of the campaign against Rumania it has become a sort of "way station" for officers and men on their way to the front, and it is gradually achieving the character of a real metropolis.

The influx of business which hundreds and thousands of soldiers and their officers have brought has jolted the town into a wide-awake state that has first of all manifested itself in an unprecedented soaring of prices.

The electric light plant that the Rumanians destroyed has been put in order again, and Broadway is hardly brighter at night than is Hermannstadt now. The sleepy and formerly little town is now a fairly teeming life, and it is a liberal education in merchandizing to watch the canny storekeepers keep abreast of the times in selling their antiquated but celebrated prices of stocks. Placarded prices have disappeared from the windows, and the price of anything is generally just what the purchaser looks as if he were able or willing to pay.

MILWAUKEE EDUCATES IN ADVERTISING

Milwaukee, Wis., Feb. 1.—Milwaukee's four-day advertising show began in the Auditorium here today under the auspices of the Advertisers Club of Milwaukee.

The show is to be entirely educational, to the advertiser, advertising man, and the general public. Individual displays are furnished by local advertising and producers of printing, lithography, engraving, electrotyping, art work, signs and photography. National advertisers will offer displays and everything that has to do with advertising will be included in the vast area of the Auditorium.

Booths demonstrating the making of cuts, etchings, stereotyped plates, and linotypes in operation, methods of advertisement preparation and dozens of trade "secrets" will fill the vast space in the hall. Thousands are expected to attend.

While the show is not being put on as a commercial project, any profit accruing will be used as a financial basis to start a campaign for bringing the National Advertising convention here in 1918. This would bring 10,000 advertising men and business men from every corner of the United States here.

At the formal opening tonight, Governor Philipp will speak. The show will be open afternoons and evenings.

CHINESE ABOLISHING FREE RAILWAY PASSES.

Peking, Feb. 1.—Free passes on the Chinese railways will be abolished this year, if President Li Yuan-hung approves a recommendation recently submitted to him by the ministry of communications.

The recommendation states that the use of passes has been greatly abused and results in the loss of four million dollars, silver, annually to the railway administration. This is about one-fourth of the deficit of the government railways in China.

All government officials are now granted passes, and it is charged that they also permit their friends to use them.

MEXICAN VARSITY BOYS ADOPTING U.S. BRETHRENS RAH-RAHS AND SNAKE DANCE

Mexico City, Feb. 1.—The close of 1916 saw a number of customs long celebrated by students in the United States adopted for the first time by Mexican college boys. The most conspicuous of these was what in the United States is generally known as a "pep-rade." The Mexican college boys, who are now in their senior year, closed in December. After the graduating students had received their diplomas at various institutions of learning in or near the capital, they celebrated by a "parade" throughout the downtown streets headed by a band and varied by songs, cheers, speeches and "snake dances." Many of the paraders were in grotesque costumes.

FIREPROOF COURT HOUSE SAVED FROM DESTRUCTION.

Manitowoc, Wis., Feb. 1.—Manitowoc's $250,000 county courthouse was saved from destruction recently by the fact that it lived up to the reputation given it by its designer, as an absolute fireproof building. A short circuit of wire set fire to some rubbish, blackened some walls, scorched woodwork and then burnt itself out. Janitor John Hoyer was nearly overcome by a gust of smoke when he opened the main door the next morning. The loss was $150.
